AAPA President's Welcome Message

Welcome to the 7th annual conference of the Asian Association for Public Administration (AAPA) jointly organized by the Public Administration Association of Thailand (PAAT) and Burapha University in Thailand on February 19-20, 2016. The 1st inaugural conference of AAPA was held in Tokyo in 2010, followed by the 2nd in Jakarta in 2011, the 3rd in Hong Kong in 2012, the 4th in Seoul in 2013, the 5th in Cebu in 2014, and the 6th in Xi'an in 2015.

The main conference theme of the 2016 AAPA meeting is "Public Administration and Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs): New Agendas and Major Challenges." Its sub-themes include: (1) Public Administration Reform: from old to new paradigms; (2) Public Policy Innovation; (3) Local Governance, Government and Administration; (4) Fiscal Policy and Management; (5) Legal Issues and Practices in Public Administration; and (6) Organizational and Human Capital Management in the Public Sector.

The Asian Association for Public Administration (AAPA) was established in 2010 with the aim to expand and improve public administration and public policy by fostering excellence in research, education, and practice in the Asian region. Prior to it, a number of Asian scholars formed the Asian Management Forum and had annual meetings from 2001, which paved the way for the establishment of AAPA. Asian Public Administration and AAPA have now become more prominently featured on the world stage so that a need has become apparent to demonstrate a world-class quality of public administration to all levels of actors and stakeholders.

Therefore, I strongly believe that AAPA can provide great opportunities for networking and collaborating with scholars and practitioners, as well as scholarly activities that will encourage the development of new professional relationships in the field of public administration in Asia and the rest of the world. Once again, I thank you for your active participation and continuous contributions to AAPA. Your strong support and dedication have ensured that AAPA's influential role in public administration will continue for many years to come. Let us, together, promote excellence and professionalism in public administration and policy in Asia and the rest of the world!

Professor Pan Suk Kim, President, Asian Association for Public Administration,
Board members of the Asian Association of Public Administration,
Board members of the Public Administration Association of Thailand, Distinguished Guests,
Ladies and gentlemen,

It is my great pleasure and honor to welcome Dr. Gwang Jo-Kim from UNESCO Asia Pacific, Professor Sompol Pongthai, Acting President of Burapha University, Professor Pan Suk Kim, President of the Asian Association for Public Administration, Board members of the Asian Association of Public Administration and the Public Administration Association of Thailand, as well as all distinguished guests to this auspicious gathering in Burapha University, Chonburi, Thailand. I thank you all for sparing your busy schedule to join the 2016 AAPA Annual Conference in Thailand on Public Administration and Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)-New Agendas and Major Challenges. My gratitude and deepest appreciation also goes to Dr. Gwang Jo-Kim for agreeing to attend this event as a keynote speaker. I have a firm belief that we will gain insights into the issue of sustainable development with the focus on education from Dr. Gwang, along with enjoyable concurrent sessions and presentations later on in the day.

Before moving into our agenda, I would like to spend a few minutes to share with you a brief history of our organization. The Public Administration Association of Thailand or PAAT was founded in October 1975. When it was first established, it was registered as a professional organization for both educators in the university and practitioners in Thai public sector and was named the Public Administration Society of Thailand (PAST). PAST was later changed to The Public Administration Association of Thailand or PAAT. Since the beginning, PAAT was aimed to achieve various purposes, including the coordination among public administration scholars, administrators and other stakeholders, the dissemination of public administration knowledge through advanced studies, research, and public forums, so on and so forth.

Since its inception, with the full support of the former president and former Secretary General, PAAT has launched several new initiatives to bring life to both public sector and the academic community relating to Public Administration in Thailand. I am very much delighted to see that, PAAT, in collaboration with the Asian Association for Public Administration and the Faculty of Political Science and Law of Burapha University, together with various universities offering courses and programs in Public Administration in Thailand, has made this year's AAPA International Conference possible. I am certain that all of you here will gain valuable information, stimulating insights and provocative arguments from our respective concurrent sessions throughout the 2-day conference.

Last but not least, I would like to thank all partners and supporters. Special thanks goes to Professor Dr. Amporn Tamronglak of Thammasat University, Assistant Professor Dr. Ekkawit Maneethorn, Dean of the Faculty of Political Science and Law, Burapha University, and Dr. Chakkri Chaipinit, also from the Faculty of Political Science and Law, Burapha University as well as PAAT Board members for their tireless efforts and dedication in organizing this Conference.

On this occasion, I wish the meeting every success and look forward to the fruitful deliberations. Thank you and welcome.
